Canvas Early Alert System

Canvas data is a report that will permit advisors and academic coaches quick access to see a list of students who are 'at risk' of not passing this course. The purpose of this report is to assess your academic standing and develop a plan that will help you complete this course successfully.

Course Policies

E-Learning Attendance/Participation

Students are expected to participate in all online activities as listed on the course calendar. You are required to access this course a minimum of three times a week.

Attendance (Asynchronous)

You attend the class by daily checking into Canvas for all updates, reviewing lectures via PowerPoint and completing quizzes, individual and groups assignments.

Attendance Holds

For the "Attendance Hold" to be removed the first week of school, you are required to submit a signed course contract and submit on Canvas.

Assignments

All assignments for this course will be submitted electronically through Canvas unless otherwise instructed. Assignments must be submitted by the given deadline or special permission must be requested from the instructor before the due date. Extensions will not be given beyond the next assignment except under extreme circumstances.

Assignments must be completed by the assignment due date and time. Late or missing assignments will affect the student's grade. 3 points will be deducted each business and weekend day that the assignment is late.

If you are having trouble keeping up with assignments or other aspects of the course, be sure to inform the instructor as early as possible. As you will find, building rapport and effective relationships are key to becoming an effective professional. Make sure that you are proactive in informing your instructor when difficulties arise during the semester so that we can help you find a solution.

Written Assignments

Due to the Gordon Rule, all written papers and/or reviews are satisfactorily completed to receive a passing grade. Incomplete assignments are highly discouraged. The student's required attendance at theatrical productions and subsequent written reviews will yield an exciting clinical experience in practical and constructive aesthetic and technical criticism. If not assigned to see a show, a video of a theatrical presentation will be offered. The written reviews are 2 full pages in length. Please refer to rubric on Canvas to develop a high quality review. Reviews/papers are submitted on Canvas.

Students will view a stage production, TBA, and develop a 2 pp review paper while using one of the topics below:

- Discuss the Theatrical Production Using Goethe's Analysis
- Relate Aristotle's Six Elements to Theatrical Production

Stage production title and/or link will post to Canvas.

Late Work Policy

Be sure to pay close attention to deadlines—there will be no make-up assignments/quizzes or late work accepted without a serious and compelling reason. An official excuse from the student's Dean's office must be submitted before the late or made up assignment is graded. 3 points are deducted each day an assignment is late. Points are waived when the official excuse is received.

Dropping This Course

It is the student's responsibility to understand when they need to consider dropping a course. Refer to the FAMU Course Schedule for dates and deadlines for registration. After this period, a serious and compelling reason is required to drop from the course. Serious and compelling reasons include: (1) documented and significant change in work hours, leaving students unable to attend class, or (2) documented and severe physical/mental illness/injury to the student or student's family.

Incomplete Policy

Under emergency/special circumstances, students may petition for an incomplete grade. An incomplete or "I" will only be assigned if the student is passing with a grade of C and all supporting documentation is submitted. All incomplete course assignments must be completed within the first five weeks of the next semester.

Academic Honesty/Plagiarism

Students will be expected to adhere to standards of academic honesty and integrity, as outlined in the Student Academic Honesty Policy. All assignments must be original work, clear and error-free. All ideas/material that are borrowed from other sources must have appropriate references to the original sources.

FAMU's Academic Honesty Policy & Procedures

Diversity and Inclusion

Each voice in the classroom is important and brings with it a wealth of diverse backgrounds, experiences, values, and beliefs. Please honor the human differences of your fellow classmates and appreciate the opportunity we have to learn from each other. Respect the perspectives and identities of others and refrain from personal attacks or demeaning comments of any kind. Please let me know if there is something said or done in the classroom, by either myself or other students, that is particularly troubling or causes discomfort or offense; or if there is any way that I might improve the class atmosphere.

Course Expectations

Course Communication

Course communication will be done via email, Canvas and GroupMe. You are required to join the class GroupMe chat and leave the chat unmuted. It is highly recommended that you check your email, Canvas and GroupMe daily for course updates.

The best way to contact me is by GroupMe or email, evelyn.tyler@famuedu. I will respond to all emails within 24 hours. For urgent matters, message me via GroupMe.

Learning Management System (Canvas) Etiquette

1. Respect others and their opinions. In online learning, students from very different backgrounds come together to learn. It is important to respect their feelings and opinions even when they are quite different from your own.
2. Watch your language and tone carefully. When you are communicating online, you have to rely solely on words to get your point across. The other person cannot see your facial expression or hear your tone of voice, so things like sarcasm and humor often don't come across very well. That's why it's important to take your time, choose your words carefully, and be as straightforward as you can.
3. Consider people's privacy. Always ask for permission before you forward someone's email messages to somebody else, and if you do reuse somebody else's words (with their permission), make sure to acknowledge them appropriately. Keep in mind that all private email mail is considered copyrighted by the original author.
4. Avoid inappropriate material. It's tempting to forward messages you find clever or links to websites you find entertaining to classmates. If they are not directly relevant to the course, please don't do this, especially if the material is sexually suggestive, politically sensitive, or otherwise "edgy." Same goes for frivolous "joke" emails and chain messages. This is not the place for it.
5. Be forgiving. If someone writes something that you find offensive, mention it directly to the instructor. He or she is best equipped to address the situation. Remember that the person contributing to the discussion might be new to this form of communication. What you find offensive may have been unintended.
6. Be concise. When you are contributing to a discussion, be as brief as you can to get your point across. Adding a lot of unnecessary words just makes your message less clear. Try to stick to the point and not go off on irrelevant tangents.
7. Read first, write later. Don't add your comments to a discussion before reading the comments that are already there. And if you are responding to a previous comment, always make clear which comment you are responding to.
8. DON'T TYPE IN ALL CAPS OR USE EXCESSIVE PUNCTUATION!!!!!! Most people find this annoying and you may not be communicating your thoughts effectively.
9. Think before you hit the send button. Learning to be your own editor is a difficult and important skill. Think carefully about the content of your message before you send or post it. Once you push the button, there is no taking it back. Grammar and spelling errors reflect badly on you, and misspelled words or poorly constructed sentences can make it hard to decipher your meaning accurately.
