Course Overview

This course is designed to introduce students to American National Government, its historical foundations, institutions, and political processes. The course focuses on institutions, practices, and the history of politics and government in the United States. It covers a great deal of ground as we will discuss the Constitution, the three branches of the federal government, interest groups, public opinion, campaigns, elections, and political parties. For each subject, we will examine some of the leading perspectives in political science and incorporate current events and our personal experiences.

Overarching Goals

- To examine the historical and philosophical foundations of the political systems of the U.S.
- To sharpen the students' ability to think critically about the American political system by reading contemporary and classic materials from various sources encompassing both objective and opinion-based points of view.
- To discuss the concepts of federalism and intergovernmental relations
- To examine constitutional principles, institutional structures, and political practices, including interest groups, political parties, voting, and elections.
- To discuss the functions and purposes of major governmental and non-governmental institutions.
- To examine how laws are made, enforced, and have changed
- To explore the role and impact of the media and other private sector participants on U.S. politics.

Etiquette

1. Respect others and their opinions. In online learning, students from very different backgrounds come together to learn. It is important to respect their feelings and opinions even when they are quite different from your own.
2. Watch your language and tone carefully. When you are communicating online, you have to rely solely on words to get your point across. The other person cannot see your facial expression or hear your tone of voice, so things like sarcasm and humor often don't come across very well. That's why it's important to take your time, choose your words carefully, and be as straightforward as you can.
3. Consider people's privacy. Always ask for permission before you forward someone's email messages to somebody else, and if you do reuse somebody else's words (with their permission), make sure to acknowledge them appropriately. Keep in mind that all private email mail is considered copyrighted by the original author.
4. Avoid inappropriate material. It's tempting to forward messages you find clever or links to websites you find entertaining to classmates. If they are not directly relevant to the course, please don't do this, especially if the material is sexually suggestive, politically sensitive, or otherwise "edgy." Same goes for frivolous "joke" emails and chain messages. This is not the place for it.
5. Be forgiving. If someone writes something that you find offensive, mention it directly to the instructor. He or she is best equipped to address the situation. Remember that the person contributing to the discussion might be new to this form of communication. What you find offensive may have been unintended.
6. Be concise. When you are contributing to a discussion, be as brief as you can to get your point across. Adding a lot of unnecessary words just makes your message less clear. Try to stick to the point and not go off on irrelevant tangents.
7. Read first, write later. Don't add your comments to a discussion before reading the comments that are already there. And if you are responding to a previous comment, always make clear which comment you are responding to.
8. DON'T TYPE IN ALL CAPS OR USE EXCESSIVE PUNCTUATION!!!!!! Most people find this annoying and you may not be communicating your thoughts effectively.
9. Think before you hit the send button. Learning to be your own editor is a difficult and important skill. Think carefully about the content of your message before you send or post it. Once you push the button, there is no taking it back. Grammar and spelling errors reflect badly on you, and misspelled words or poorly constructed sentences can make it hard to decipher your meaning accurately.

Incomplete Grade Policy

Due to extenuating circumstances beyond the control of the student, an incomplete grade may be assigned if the student was passing as determined by the instructor. A student who is passing a course but has not completed all of the required work due to extenuating circumstances by the end of the term may, with the permission of the instructor, be assigned a grade of "I." Grades of "I" are not assigned to any course that a student fails to attend.

Academic Honesty / Plagiarism

Students will be expected to adhere to standards of academic honesty and integrity, as outlined in the Student Academic Honesty Policy. All assignments must be original work, clear and error-free. All ideas/material that is borrowed from other sources must have appropriate references to the original sources.

FAMU's Academic Honesty Policy & Procedures

All members of, and participants in, the academic life of the University are to be governed by academic honesty in all of their endeavors. Students and faculty are expected to uphold academic integrity and combat academic dishonesty. "Read more about FAMU's Academic Honesty Policy & Procedures.

Accommodations

If you have a documented disability and verification from the Center for Disability Access and Resources (CEDAR) and wish to discuss academic accommodations, please contact your Instructor as soon as possible. It is the student's responsibility to provide documentation of disability to CEDAR and meet with a CEDAR counselor to request special accommodation before classes start. CEDAR is located at 667 Ardelia Court, Tallahassee, FL 32307 and can be contacted by phone at 850.599-3180.
